

Adapt to Regulatory Requirements

While the regulatory requirements of each industry and each geography are unique, they all share a common theme: change. Whether it's health care mandates or industry-specific financial reporting requirements, every business has to balance rock-solid systems that deliver compliance today with the flexibility to adapt as their regulatory responsibilities change.

Accountability and oversight

Microsoft Dynamics offers a set of financial management tools with securities and controls to help you meet regulatory requirements. Built on accounting and reporting best practices, Microsoft Dynamics not only helps deliver accountability and oversight, it provides you with the ability to clearly separate duties around sensitive data and processes to reduce fraud and protect your company from internal risk.

Reduce the cost and complexity of compliance

Microsoft Dynamics will maintain integrity and data security and allow you to take control of your compliance reporting.

- Automate compliance workflows and checkpoints, so employees take action at the right moment without having to monitor processes or gather data.
- Minimize the cost of audits by reducing the number of audit observations and the amount of time needed to assemble transaction history.

- Eliminate unnecessary paperwork, and store and verify changes and approvals within compliance processes electronically.
- Implement business roles to give employees a reliable framework for realizing compliance and reducing the chance of human error and omissions.

As regulations change, you can't afford to be locked into a system that won't adapt. Microsoft Dynamics is built to be flexible, so you can change your workflows and processes to keep your business compliant without breaking the bank.
